

Logan company accuses Kentucky business of contract breach

by Louie Torres |

Apr. 9, 2018, 11:12am

by Louie Torres | Apr. 9, 2018, 11:12am

LOGAN — A Logan corporation is suing a Kentucky company, alleging it owes more than $46,000 for breach of contract.

W.W. McDonald Land Company filed a complaint March 7 in Logan Circuit Court against Greenthorn, LLC, alleging the defendant failed to pay tonnage royalties and minimum rentals based on their lease agreement.

According to the complaint, W.W. McDonald was damaged financially due to unpaid royalties, rentals and taxes for the lease it provided to Greenthorn for coal mining purposes.

The plaintiff alleges Greenthorn breached the lease agreement by failing to cure multiple defaults based on the lease.

W.W. McDonald Land seeks trial by jury, judgment of $46,044.10, plus interest, order that the lease be terminated, court costs and all further relief this court grants. It is represented by attorney William M. Herlihy of Spilman Thomas & Battle, PLLC in Charleston.

Logan Circuit Court case number 18-C-66-B

Alerts Sign-up

Want to get notified whenever we write about Logan Circuit Court ?

Next time we write about Logan Circuit Court, we'll email you a link to the story. You may edit your settings or unsubscribe at any time.

Logan Circuit Court

Email

By signing up for alerts, you agree to the privacy policy & terms of service.

Subscribe

Organizations in this Story

Logan Circuit Court

More News

}

Morrisey warns consumers of tax scams as filing deadline approaches

}

Injured Putnam Co. motorist alleges insurance company breached contract

}

AGs office files lawsuit against Equifax

Opioid judge orders trials, DEA records as 'step toward defeating the disease'

AG's office secures state's first handgun recognition with Minnesota

Customer blames Wheeling Island casino for burn injuries

Popular

AGs office files lawsuit against Equifax

Supreme Court suspends attorney's law license

Former attorney faces up to 20 years in federal prison for child pornography charge

Thousands of state employees shortchanged by pay change

Widow blames health care providers for Shahan's death

Contact

Cook County Record

Email: news@wvrecord.com

f

News

Morrisey warns consumers of tax scams as filing deadline approaches

Injured Putnam Co. motorist alleges insurance company breached contract

AGs office files lawsuit against Equifax

Copyright © West Virginia Record. All Rights Reserved

privacy policy terms of service